As per our conversations and your notification/recommendations regarding the referenced Violation Notice dated September 27, 2019 at our facility, please consider following response and advise if further action is necessary.

In response to the Violation Notice , September 27, 2019

1. The dates the violation occurred: Since approximately November , 2018.
2. Cause and duration of the violation: We improperly wrote/implemented procedure and record keeping per misunderstanding of previous AQD request regarding this oven. Due to this misunderstanding the oven was overloaded on a few occasions (very marginally).
3. Is the violation on-going: The violation is not on-going. We've now properly identified procedurally the frequency/quantity of the "batch type" processing to insure actual material indicated (copper magnet wire w/affiliated coating) is kept below maximum requested by ADQ (300 lbs. max.)
4. Summary of the actions taken: We have incorporated record keeping procedure at the oven (posted procedure). We will keep the records of usage for at least 2 years.

Hopefully, this response and these procedural / record-keeping changes will fulfill the DEQ, AQD inquiry and VN to your satisfaction. If I can be of further service, please message or call.
