Re: Response to Violation

On December 22nd 2020 Ellsworth Cutting Tools was advised of a violation of Rule 201 of the administrative rules promulgated under Act 451. Ellsworth Cutting Tools thought it had a proper filtration system in place that used gravity to pull any particulate from air exiting the building. Upon information provided by EGLE it is understood that the current system is insufficient and in violation. As such Ellsworth Cutting Tools has requested pricing for professional installation of conforming air filtration. Currently Ellsworth Cutting Tools is awaiting competitive pricing to install the proper filtration system that will either pass all exiting air through the proper fabric media or completely keep all filtered air from exiting the shop at all. Once the final competitive bidding has concluded Ellsworth Cutting Tools will in a reasonable amount of time proceed with the installation of which ever unit is constructed. Once installed there will be no future violations occurring.

Sincerely,
